

This course provides students the opportunity to develop the skills, strategies, and athletic ability necessary for participation in soccer. This intermediate level of participation includes sports psychology, and